Support pours into townsite

Every day since the 61,000-acre Las Conchas Fire first ignited at 1 p.m. Sunday, Gov. Susana Martinez, Homeland Security and Emergency Management Cabinet Secretary Gorden Eden, state police and the National Guard have been in Los Alamos – offering moral support, advice and resources.

"A major reason the evacuation ran so smoothly is because the governor called the National Guard in to help us," said Los Alamos Police Chief Wayne Torpy. "Manpower is key to a successful evacuation and the guardsman helped make that happen."
